CalDigit is the leader in storage solutions for the content creation industry. With years of experience and proven industry acclaim, CalDigit has paved the way for the future of storage. You can see the latest innovations from CalDigit at IBC at the Amsterdam RAI from 8th to the 13th of September, Stand 7.B42.

CalDigit has announced support for Mac OS X 10.7 Lion throughout their line of storage solutions and interface cards. Because of CalDigit's close relationship with Apple, support for most CalDigit products is built right into Lion, and does not need any additional drivers installed.

CalDigit will also be unveiling, the next generation video RAID, the CalDigit VR2 with added USB 3.0 support. The CalDigit VR2 is the most complete two drive RAID system on the market today. It offers unmatched performance, impressive connectivity and superior quality all in a sleek and easily upgradeable enclosure that is both portable and functional.

The CalDigit VR2 features true hardware RAID, which provides an independent CPU and dedicated cache memory to manage the RAID volume. The quadruple interface supports USB 3.0, FireWire 400, FireWire 800 and eSATA, making the CalDigit VR2 extremely versatile. The CalDigit VR2 is set to ship in November.

CalDigit will also be providing a Thunderbolt FAQ and engineering preview at IBC. CalDigit has made strong commitments with Intel, and Apple to support this exciting new interface. Visit www.caldigit.com/Thunderbolt for more information.
